

ORGANISATIONAL CHART'S LEGEND

REGULATIONS FOR THE REPRESENTATION OF THE DIRECT REPORTING RELATIONSHIPS AND THE COORDINATION RELATIONSHIPS

Black straight line ending in an arrow – director reporting relationship with the Rector

Coloured (except for black) straight line ending in an arrow – director reporting relationship

Coloured (except for black) dotted line ending in an arrow – coordination relationship

Straight or dotted line with no arrow – institutional relationship in compliance with legal provisions

The colour of the entity – characterises the fields of activity of a vice-rectorate to which the said entity belongs, regardless of the direct reporting relationships or of the coordination relationships manifested over the entity.

The Senate, the Administration Council, the Rector and the Registrar in Chief are represented with the same colour (dark blue), and the relationships between them are represented by dark straight or dotted lines

Other rules of representation of relationships:

- For entities that are not in a direct reporting relationship with the Rector, as mentioned in this organisation chart, this only means that the flux of activities and control from the Rector are in compliance with the arborescent structure of the organisation chart up to said entity
- Each of the “leaf” (or “leaf vertex”) of this organisation chart will create their own (specific) organisation chart where necessary. “Leaves or leaf vertices” are those entities which don’t continue any reporting and/or coordination line
